SECRETARY TAFT NOMINATED FOR PRESIDENT ON THE FIRST BALLOT

LATER HIS NOMINATION WAS MADE UNANIMOUS—CONGRESS-MAN BURTON MADE NOMINATING SPEECH, SECONDED BY GEORGE A. KNIGHT OF CALIFORNIA.

CANNON, FAIRBANKS, FORAKER, HUGHES, KNOX AND LAFOL-LETTE PLACED BEFORE THE REPUBLICAN CONVEN-TION-PLATFORM READ AND ADOPTED.

Chicago, Ill.-For president of the United States, William H. Taft of Ohio. Taft on the first ballot; Taft by 702 votes; Taft by the unanimous choice of the con-

Such is the record of the culminating day of the Republican national convention of 1908, effected amid scenes of tumultous enthusiasm and after a nerveracking continuous session lasting nearly

The picture within the walls of the vast amphitheater as the presidential candidate was named Thursday was one trul) grandiose in its magnitude. In front, to the right and left, below and above, the billowing sea of humanity, restless after hours of waiting and stirred from one entotion to another, was in a fever of expectancy for the culminating vote. The favorite sons of other states had been named, save Knox and La Follette, and now on the roll call came Ohio. As the Buckeye state was reached, the tall, gaunt form of Theodore E. Burton, with student-like face and severe black clerical garb, advanced to the platform to nominate Ohio's candidate. He spoke fervently, with the singing voice of an evangelist, which went ringing through the great building. He said in part as

"This convention enters upon the grave responsibility of selectir.," a presidential candidate with the serene assurance that the Republican party will continue to rule this people. What assembled multitude in any land has ever pointed the way to such beneficent results for home and for the progress of the whole human race, as the recurring conventions of this grand old organization? Yet we do not rely alone upon the record of that which it has accomplished. We emphasize, even more, its supreme qualifications to solve the problems of the presents a candidate to the rational Republican convention. In seven stubbornly contested presidential campaigns, sons of her sacred soll have led the embattled Republican hosts to victory. The Buckeye state has assuredly contributed her share of statesmen and generals for the upbullding of the nation. But that of which we are prouder still is her stalwart cilizenship—the mightlest bulwark of the republic in every commonwealth—made up of America's free yearnen, ever ready to respond to the toesin of alarm in days of peril, or to crush corruption whenever it raises its menacing head.

"From this sitizenship Ohio, in the suruption whenever it raises its menacing head.

"From this citizenship Ohio, in the supreme emergency of the civil war, sent forth more than 200,000 solders for our country's defense, a formidable array easily surpassing in numbers the world-conquering legions of imperial Caesar, and even larger than any army ever mustered by Britain for the tented field. But transcendent above all is the fact that Ohio is one of a matchless union of states linked together in everlasting bonds of amity and constituting an empire wonderful in power and almost immeasurable in extent. Each sovereign state alone would occupy but a subordinate place in the great current of the world's events, but when represented by one of 46 bright stars on a field of stainless blue, every one forms part of an emblem of union and of strength more beautiful far than the most brilliant constellation in the heavens.

The most perpiexing questions of to-day arise from the bountiful development of our material wealth. Such a development can not occur without the creation of inequalities and dangers to the soci of inequalities and dangers to the social fabric. I most strenuously deny that the American business man or the American citizen sherishes lower standards than the citizens of any other country. The American people are by no means deprayed. But by reason of their busy absorption in varied pursuits and of the glamour which attends success in great undertakings, questionable methods have been able to engraft themselves upon the business of the country. Rich rewards have too frequently been gained by some who are none too scrupulous. Monopoly, dishonesty and fraud have assumed a prominence which calls for the carnest attention and condemnation of every man who truly loves the republic.

"Against all these abuses and in the truly loves the republic.

Against all these abuses and in the work for restoring old ideals of honesty and equality, as well as for higher standards of civic duty, one man has stood preseminent, and that man is Theodore Roosevelt. Against corruption in every form he has set his face with grim determination, prompt and fearless in action and with that intelligent leadership which has assured the satablishment of a better era in which the strong and the weak alike must submit themselves to the impartial execution of the law.

Since the day when, less than 10 years must submit themselves to the impartial execution of the law.

Since the day when, less than 30 years of age. Mr. Taft denounced, with burning words, a member of his profession who had been guilty of flagrantly victous practices and had demoralized the community, he has ever been associated with the cause of the true reform—with that reform which will not content itself with academic dissertation or hollow words. He has been imbued with the spirit of action, His advocacy of sounder conditions has never arisen from a desire for the exploitation of himself. It has always been based upon unswerving integrity and the courage to speak the truth, as he understands it, or all occasions, no matter how influential or powerful the evils which he may attack.

"Although of an aggressive personality, he possesses an infinite good nature, a charm of manner and a polse which have made him a model for exalted station. In the final analysis even the highest officials must be judged as men, and under this criterion Secretary Taft is now and as one invariably actuated by that democratic spirit which should characterize a progressive American. And yet no one can for a moment heastate to recognize his severity in dealing with wrong-doing. While no honest enterprise need fear him, no dishonest schame could hope to hide its face from the light or 20 escape punishment.

its face from the light or to escape punishment.

"Thus in this new era of larger relations. Secretary Taft, with his comprehension of national and international subjects, would furnish a certainty of peace and sustained prestigs. Under him, a home and everywhere, this mighty peoplewould have an assured confidence in the secure development and progress of the country and would rest safe in the reliance that a chief executive was at the helm who, in peace or in war, would guid the destinies of the nation with a strong hand and with a gentle, patriotic heart.

"And so today, in the presence of more than 10,000, and with the inspiring thought of the well-nigh 10,000 times 10,000 who dwell within our borders. I nominate for the presidency that perfect type of American manhood, that perfect type of American manhood, that perfect type of the noblest ideals in our national ican manhood, that peerless representa-tive of the noblest ideals in our national life. William H. Taft of Ohio."

The close of his speech of nomination was the signal for loosening the long pent-up feeling of the Taft legions. Instantly the Ohio delegates were on their feet, other Taft states following, while the convention hosts, in gallery and on floor, broke into mad demonstration. "Taft, Taft, W. H. Taft," came in a roar from the Ohloans. Megaphones seemed to spring from concealed places and swell to make the convention master of its afthe Taft tumuit into thunder. A huge fairs. He ordered the roll call of states blue alik banner bearing the familiar to begin for the vote on president. Such features of the statesman-secretary was swung before the delegates, awakening a fresh whiriwind of enthusiasm. All semblance of order had been abandoned and the delegates' arena was a maelstrom of gesticulating men; guidons of the states were snatched up by the Taft enthusiasts or borne under by the storm of disorder. The band was inaudible—a mere whisper above the deafening volume of sound. For 10, 15, then 20 minutes this uproar continued. It was a repetition of the scene of Wednesday, when the name of Roosevelt the convention into a frenzy, repeated in intensity and almost in duration. But there is a limit to the physical resources of throat and lungs; relays had not been established and at last the tired voices died down to a hourse shout and at last subsided.

This lull now gave the opportunity for the speech seconding Taft's nomination, by George A. Knight of California, his big, round face beaming forth on the sympathetic multitude, and his splendic baritone voice swelling forth like the tones of a great church organ. In bries he said:

It was late in the afternoon before the convention, now literally sweltering with the intense heat and weary after nearl seven hours of continuous session, reache the end of the flood of eloquence and th decks were at last cleared for the cul minating act—the ballot. But no, juas the last swell of oratory, the seconing speech for La Follette, had died awn like a cyclone from a clear sky burst La Follette demonstration which swe the convention from its very bearings. was the same deafening wave of sour at had greeted Roosevelt Wednesda and Taft a little while before, intense as maddening and with the vital ring of go rine enthusiasm. It seemed as though Visconsin had suddenly peopled ever not of the galleries. The delegates and alm and waiting except the frantie Wis consins, but the convention for the time being was in the possession of the galleries.

Now a singular transformation occurred gradually the whiriwind veered from the La Foliette to Roosevelt. A banner bearing the Roosevelt portrait and waved from the gallery was the signal for the from the gullery was the signal for the change, but in the confused babel of voices there was no distinguishing where the La Pollette cheers ended and those for Roosevelt began. Amid this pandemonium and with the galleries in full control, Chairman Lodge decided upon heroic action in order again a call, under such circumstances of intense confusion, has probably never before occurred in the history of national conventions.

A ballot was taken to nominate a candidate for president while the convention was cheering frantically for a man whose name had not been presented to the convention. The votes were being ounted for Taft while the people were shouting for Roosevelt. The delegates, lowever, cast their votes uninfluenced by the clamor of the crowd. More than this, the first states on the call, Alabama and Arkansas, had been relied upon by a few Roosevelt fanatics to start the stampede for the president, but they held by their instructions while the stampede raged all about them.

The secretary was powerless to make is call of the states heard above the leafening clamor. Seizing a megaphone e shouted the roll of states-Alabama rkansas-būt his voice was swallowed p in the mad uproar. Gradually, howuered their enthusiasm and they lapsed nto silence to hear the result of the roll

A hush of expectancy hung over the asembly as the call proceeded. Hasty ammaries showed that Taft was far in Ivance. When New York was reached he Taft column totalled 427. Ohlo caried the Taft total to 511, or 20 more than ough to nominate. Still the call went until the final result was appr y Chairman Lodge

For Theodore Roosevelt 3 votes, for esepti B. Foraker of Ohio 16 votes, for barles W. Fairbanks of Indiana 40 votes, er Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois 61 votes, or Robert La Follette of Wisconsin 25 otes, for Charles E. Hughes of New York votes, for Philander C. Knox of Pennvivania 68 votes, and for William H. Taft of Ohio 702 votes."

A great shout went up as Lodge conluded his announcement and with one cord the cohorts of Cannon and Knox nd Hughes and other heroes, joined in common tribute for the candidate of

Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, for Gov tughes, leaping upon a chair, moved to ake the nomination of Taft unanimous; enator Penrose for Knox, and Boutelle or Cannon, and Henry of Georgia, for Foraker, and Wisconsin for La Follette, econded the movement for a unanimous ote to the candidate. The vote was iven with a ringing cheer and then with shouts of exultation over the new canlidate the convention adjourned until 10 'clock Friday morning.

Earlier in the day the battle over the latform had occupied the close attention f delegates and spectators. The platem as framed by the committee on res lutions was read by its chairman, Senar Hopkins of Illinois, while a minority eport, reflecting the views of the suporters of Senator La Foilette was pre ented by Congressman Cooper of Wisonsin. It was on one hand the sledgeammer blows of the Wisconsin men gainst combinations and monopoly and n the other hand the warning of Hopdns against the "socialistic doctrines of Visconsin." The platform was adopted y an overwhelming vote, after many sepcrate planks in the Wisconsin plan had seen buried under adverse votes.

THE PLATFORM. The Republican platform, as finally greed on by the resolutions committee, substance is as follows: Lauds Party and Roosevelt. Lauds Party and Rooseveit.

The Republican party is praised for il progress the United States has made at home and abread and Roosevelt's administration is lauded as the greatest duce national sovereignty was won uner Washington and preserved under Linoin," and the achievements are recited which "will make for Theodore Roosevelt is place in history," and the party's infaitering adherence in his policies and leir continuance is piedged.

The statement is made that this nation is the richest and that the Republican party stands for equal opportunity for all.

Democratic incapacity.

The platform says the Democrats are incapacitated for government and declares they always have stood on the wrong side of great questions. Several hundred words are devoted to telling the differences between the two parties.

It was not until four hours had been Wheat, bushel..... spent over the platform that the convention was ready to proceed with the nom-inating speeches for president. First came the nomination of Cannon by Representative Boutell of Illinois, seconded by Representative Fordney of Michigan which awakened a welcoming yell for the "grand old man" of Illinois. The nominating speech for Fairbanks by Gov. Hanly of Indiana was made amid intense confusion and constant interruption. Smarting under these discourtesies toward the governor, Mayor Bookwalter of Indianapolis began his speech seconding the nomination of Fairbanks with a cutting allusion to the "steam roller" which was crush-

"Well," remarked a gentleman, after a long argument on the question of man's superiority over woman, "at least there is one good, sweet and perfect thing which a man can have and a woman cannot."

"Never!" cried his wife, passionately. "Never! I deny it! What do you mean ?"

"A wife !"-Tit-Bits.
